All evidence that was preserved by plaintiffs was turned over to McCollum Crowley by Dropbox.

John Wingo also turned over evidence with his timeline in a binder. The binder was given to McCollum Crowley in January 2023.

Robert Trzynka and Rolf Fiebiger represented John Wingo, Desiree Holler, Titus Kargbo and Robert Rieger. Separate independent contracts.

After terminating Robert Trzynka and Rolf Fiebiger, Wesley Cornwell requested all files after signing a contract with the plaintiffs.

Plaintiffs do not know if any information is missing from the files that were turned over by Robert Trzynka and Rolf Fiebiger.

John Wingo specifically asked to have the files mailed to him so that he could have copies of all the files that were turned over. John Wingo never received the requested copies of his files from Robert Trzynka or Rolf Fiebiger.

The timing of depositions and the phone material

The plaintiffs then went to discovery and depositions in March 2023 it ended in June 2023. If the phone data was turned over to Wesley Cornwell in December 2022 then why was it submitted in August 2023.

Brian Kluk and Jacob received data from John Wingo’s phone after discovery was over from Rolf Fiebiger and Robert Trzynka and the plaintiffs asked why they did not turn over data when the contract was terminated.

Why the plaintiffs opposed withdrawal

Through all of this we feel that this is still not the time for withdrawal and that it would be a hardership on the plaintiffs and the case to find new counsel and catch them up unless the court was to appoint counsel for the plaintiffs and give us more time.

The plaintiffs would like the courts to consider the timing of the withdrawal request in relation to key milestones or court dates. This withdrawal would cause undue disruption,
